CONCENTRATING ON SOUND LINES

SMALL MOBILE BODIES SCAT-TERED BETWEEN THE MAIN FORCES AND BORDER.

EAGLE PASS, Tex., July 5 .- Mexican troops throughout the north of Mexico are being concentrated along sound military lines, according to close students of military affairs among officers here. News reaching the border indicates that the plan is to scatter small, mobile bodies of cavalry throughout the country just south of the border and concentrate the main main forces at points some distance in the interior, the railroad connections of which make possible the dispatch of troops in any direction and allows the movement of ammunition and sup-

Reports indicate that this general plan is being followed from the Gulf of Mexico to the Gulf of California.

Mexican troop movements have been almost continuous in some sections, and it is believed that in some cases the same troops have been moved back and forth along a certain line. It is remarked here that these movements may have been to conceal the real number and disposition of the Mexican forces, or because of the scant supplies of provisions in some

NEWS FROM THE COUNTIES

Wilson county farmers seem to fa vor Southdown Sheep.

In April dogs visited three farms near Lebanon, Wilson county, killed three lambs and injured about fifty others. e

J. C. and H. B. Young, of Giles county, measured one of their crimson clover stalks and found it to be 28 inches high. It had 67 blossoms.

White county has not had enough seed corn to go around this year. The farmers believe in getting seed corn at home, but had to go away for some of it on account of the shortage.

J. H. Stribling, of Lawrence county, put in two pieces of alfalfa, one with and the other without lime. The difference in favor of the limed area is marked. Mr. Stribling is very outspoken in favor of lime for alfalfa.

Tom M. Carter, of Giles county, bought fifty hogs weighing 4,900 pounds, fed them for 35 days on damaged corn while the hogs were running on rye and blue grass, and then weighed them out at 8,900 pounds.

Farmers in Haywood county are finding it unsatisfactory to use too light a team when plowing. Some used but one mule when plowing for corn. They are finding that plowing one and a half to three inches deep is not enough.

Trenton county is showing a tendency to improve the conveniences about the farm. The gasoline engine equipped and attached to emery wheel, washing machine, feed grinder, churn, wood cutter, and well pump is becoming more common.

An implement dealer in Sevier county reports a decrease in the sale of double-shovel cultivators and an increase in the sale of other kinds. This would indicate that the farmers believe in shallow cultivation for that part of the state.

Ed. Maurer, of Franklin county, farms a place of thin, barren, white land. Last year he cleared $45 an acre. Twenty years ago his father paid three dollars an acre for the land. The raising of crimson clover and red clover and the application of business principles to all farm operations brought these results.

The experience of T. M. Turner, of Wilson county, is interesting. He sowed ten acres of alfalfa last fall without inoculation. It looked well until March 1st. Then it turned yellow and quit growing, all but a spot twen ty feet square. There the nodules of the roots showed that the necessary bacteria were present in the soil. That spot was getting food for growth The rest of the field was not.

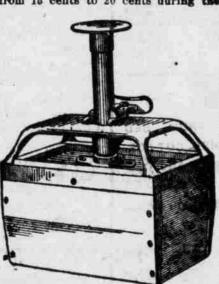

The farmers of Sumper county prided themselves this spring on their fine pastures. Fine pastures have brought forth fine sheep. One shipment the per hundredweight for the lambs, and pass, from $7.50 to $8.25 for the sheep. The pastures have had more than the usual abundant supply of white clover. One visitor made the remark that the white

POOR QUALITY BUTTER LOSES FARMERS MONEY

Some Farmers Have Increased the Amount Received From 15 to 30 Cents a Pound.

(By C. A. Hutton, Division of Extension, University of Tennessee.)

The average price paid for farm butter in Tennessee ranges from 12 cents to 15 cents per pound in summer, and from 15 cents to 20 cents during the Poor quality is one of the greatest reasons for the difference in price between average farm butter and good Of course the day is safe and sane, farmers who, by improving the quality ket in neat and attractive packages, and catering to a select trade, have increased the price from 15 cents to 30 cents per pound.
